Arkansas House Says It's Helping the Totalitarian Nations

WASHINGTON—(A)—Secretary Morgenthau denied Thursday that the Treasury's 2-billion-dollar stabilization fund had been used to help France or any foreign country buy military supplies or other merchandise in this country.

Asked whether the stabilization fund might have been involved in the French plan deal, the secretary said: "The stabilization fund has not been used directly, indirectly or in any way whatsoever to help any country make any purchase of merchandise."

Arkansas Resolution
LITTLE ROCK—(A)—Expressing the belief that this nation eventually would be drawn into any general European war, the Arkansas House of Representatives Thursday called on congress to amend the United States' neutrality act and the Johnson foreign loan act.

Both acts are described in the resolution adopted by a voice vote as "standing today as a bulwark of protection to those belligerent totalitarian nations whose actions in recent months tend to threaten the peace of the entire world."

Representatives Campbell, of Hot Springs, and Nyberg, of Helena, offered the resolution.

Representative Nyberg said: "In a poker game the one who has the most money is the loser, for he is called all the bluffs. By adopting this resolution we will tell our congressmen to call any bluffs in this international poker game."

Syphilis Touches
One of 20 PersonsSix Times More Prevalent
Among Negroes Than Whites

LITTLE ROCK—(A)—One of every 20 persons is, or has been, infected with syphilis, Dr. A. M. Washburn, in charge of the Communicable Disease division of the state Board of Health, said at a meeting of the Lions Club here Wednesday. The address was in connection with Syphilis Hygiene Week.

Fifty per cent of all blindness, 10 per cent of the insanity, and many miscarriages and still births can be attributed to the disease, he said. He estimated that there are approximately 100,000 cases of syphilis in Arkansas, more than all other cases of contagious diseases combined.

More than 13,000 registered for medical attention in Arkansas last year, Dr. Washburn said from one to two years treatment is necessary for cure in most cases. Only one of every five receives adequate medical attention, he said.

A larger percentage of cases is found in cities than rural sections. Six times more negroes are suffering from the disease than whites. The percentage of cases is highest among the male sex, he said.

Dr. Washburn said the best method of controlling the disease is to cure existing cases. Arkansas obtained $47,000 of federal funds for cure and prevention work, last year. Medical authorities have estimated there are more than 500,000 new cases each year.

He said syphilis could be contracted through unbroken skin. It will take from 10 days to six weeks for it to appear.

In Sweden, where a syphilis treatment and eradication program was undertaken by the government several years ago, only seven persons in 10,000 have the disease, Dr. Washburn said the Arkansas percentage should be reduced considerably this year.

Dr. Washburn was introduced by A. L. Woolfolk, chairman of the Program Committee.

State Policeman Copeland Makes Arrest South of Fulton

Fifty-one gallons of moonshine liquor were seized and four men were arrested Wednesday five miles south of Fulton in Hempstead county in what officers said was one of the largest hauls in this vicinity in recent years.

S. R. Copeland, Arkansas state policeman, arrested three white men and one negro as they brought the whisky out of a wooded section in a wagon. Copeland said those held are: Floyd Dobson, Gene Sisco, Carl Curtis and Clark Taylor, the latter a negro.

Officer Copeland said the whisky was in 102 half-gallon fruit jars packed in cases. Copeland said one of the quartet, Sisco, claimed that he bought the whisky to drink. All four prisoners were taken to Texarkana where they are expected to be arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Bibbins Friday or Saturday of this week.

Copeland said he was unsuccessful in obtaining information as to the location of a possible whisky still in the area where the men were arrested.

$114,351 Ready for Delivery to Nevada County Farmers

FRESNCO, Ark.—D. M. Vaughn, county administrative assistant under the AAA program, announced that checks totaling $114,351.75 were received by his office and would be ready for delivery to Nevada county farmers Thursday.

These checks represent about 75 per cent of the $180,000 to be received by the farmers of Nevada county for compliance with the 1938 Agricultural Conservation program, Mr. Vaughn said. He also said that he expected to receive the remainder of the checks within the next 15 days.

Mr. Vaughn said that cards are being mailed to all persons whose checks have been received by his office and that these persons may secure their check by calling at this office in the court house Thursday or after.

Those not receiving cards need not call because their checks have not been received.

Second Concert to Be Given Thursday

Hope High School Band to Appear at City Hall Night of February 7

Tuesday night at 7:30 at the city hall auditorium, the Hope High School band will present the second concert of its winter season.

Included on the program will be a trombone solo played by Bobby Reynerson and a clarinet quartet played by Thomas Kinser, Bill Routon, Luther Garner and Dewell Dempsey.

These concerts have become very popular among friends and patrons of the band. Hard work is required to prepare them. Constructive criticism is the only reward for the musicians. An innovation at the coming concert will be a request for frank criticism of the type of numbers played. Each person will be given the opportunity to express his likes and dislikes.

In this way, the band leader will know more about the tastes of Hope audiences and will be able to arrange future programs accordingly.

Watch Friday's Star for further details of this plan.

FROM EARLY DAYS

Most Saw Service in Munich Beer-Cellar Putsch in 1923

Germany begins the seventh year of Adolf Hitler's Third Reich with a leadership in which all conservative elements have been eliminated. The band of sub-leaders clustered around Hitler are all National Socialists, all devoted personally to Hitler.

All today's leaders in Germany came up through the desolate and turbulent years that followed the World war in Germany.

Here are thumbnail sketches of the men who are directing the German people into the "second epoch" of Hitler rule:

JOSEPH GOEBBELS: Lame, dwarf-like, the propaganda minister is among the best educated and most cultivated of German leaders... his mind is Machiavellian, devious, clever. A student during the war, he attended eight universities in turn, and has never held a job except that of professional political agitator. His "war effort" to gain "living by force" writing failed, and he turned to political agitation with Hitler in the Ruhr during the French occupation... he has made himself an artist working in the medium of the raw prejudices and feelings of the masses.

Whether Goebbels' status in the Reich has been jeopardized by a reported mixup with the husband of a movie actress, cannot yet be determined.

HERMANN WILHELM GOERING: Born of an aristocratic family... technically an "old army" officer, he always considered a bit of a maverick... as a young flyer, a front-line ace... shot down 20 Allied planes... always impatient of restraint or routine, always seeking the dramatic gesture... became a Hitler man, "hide and hair," and was shot down at Hitler's side during the "beer-cellar putsch" in Munich in 1923... these and war-time wounds still trouble him... As an organizer of the Hitler Storm Troops he marched into the Reichstag in 1932 and took over the gavel from Socialist Clara Zetkin... helped steer the Nazi regime through its early days... less than enthusiastic about the anti-Jewish movement, but at least until recently regarded as the No. 2 Nazi.

HEINRICH HIMMLER: Head of all German police, including the dreaded Gestapo... little is known of Himmler except that he is and always has been 100 per cent for Hitler... trained as an army officer, he found no place in the post-war army or civil life... joined the Hitler movement early and was an aide during the beer-cellar putsch... became the Nazi business manager for Bavaria... organized the Elite Guard and became its head over Goering's opposition... developed a secret service unequaled since Fouché... believed to have complete dossiers on all suspects.

145 Feet of Saturated Core Reported at Warren No. One

LEWISVILLE, Ark.—A total of 145 feet of saturated core has been taken from the Shell and Ohio-Oil-Warren No. 1, in section 13-16-15, Lafayette county, two and a half miles east of here, according to reports of oil men who have been watching the well. The bottom of the hole is at 7325 feet, according to reports, the top of the saturation being at 7178. The well is 660 feet north and west of the southeast corner of the southeast quarter of 13-16-24.

The last four feet of the core was understood to have showed a crystalline lime which is porous, but which was said to have a decreasing oil saturation.

Operators originally cored 47 feet, ran the tubing and swabbed the hole, according to reports. It is understood that they then removed the tubing and cored 98 additional feet.

Bobcats Will Play
El Dorado Thursday

Conference Cage Contest Begins at 7:30 in High School Gym

The El Dorado High School basketball team will oppose the Bobcats in a conference battle at the high school gymnasium at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night.

It will be the fifth conference game of the season for Hope and the second between the two teams. Hope defeated the El Dorado five at El Dorado several nights ago.

Norman Green, one of the top-ranking forwards of the state, will attempt to add more points to his already impressive high-scoring. Otis, forward of the El Dorado team, is also among the leading point-makers in the conference.

Coach Hammons ask that the supporters of the Bobcats turn out for this game. The attendance has been disappointing in the past few games.

Unique cafe and Spring Hill, members of the Independent county league, will play a preliminary contest.

The junior team of Hope will meet Guernsey in the game. It will be played after the Hope-El Dorado contest.

Prisoner Slashes

Eskel Erickson Kills Self in the Malvern City Jail

MALVERN, Ark.—Eskel Erickson, arrested in Malvern Saturday and placed in the city jail, committed suicide about 7 Wednesday night by cutting his throat with a safety razor blade. He was fined for vagrancy and unable to pay, was remanded to jail. He had refused to work since being fined.

A negro prisoner discovered the man bleeding to death and notified Fire Chief Ford who called Chief of Police Ault and Dr. W. G. Hodges, but Erickson was dead when they arrived.

When arrested he gave Minneapolis, Minn., as his address. He was about 40 years old.

Coroner Milton Kidder said that an inquest would not be held.

Robber Adds Insult to Injury in Hope
Wednesday Night

A mysterious night prowler who has been harassing the Hope police department by a series of residential robberies the past few weeks added insult to injury Wednesday night.

The robber broke into a home where a policeman was sleeping! The scene was the Louis Breed home on North Main street, Policeman J. W. (Son) Jones has a room there.

The robber made a hasty exit before other Policemen Jones or members of the Breed family were able to get a good glimpse of him.

Mrs. Breed was awakened about 1 a. m. when she saw a light "playing" around the walls of an adjoining room. She awakened her husband who went to investigate. Mr. Breed almost bumped into the robber in the darkness.

The robber fled through a rear door and escaped. An investigation further revealed that nothing was missing.

A second robbery occurred Wednesday night when the combination office and tool house of J. M. O'Neal at Second and Hazel street was robbed.

A portable typewriter was the only item missing. Entrance to the office was gained by smashing a lock on the door.

Soviet Troops Slain in Clash on Manchoukuo Frontier

TOKYO, Japan—(A)—The Japanese news agency reported Thursday from Hsinking capital of Manchoukuo that a Manchoukuo garrison had killed five Soviet Russian soldiers and wounded three in a clash 60 miles northeast of Manchuli.

Manchuli, on the northwest border of Manchoukuo, is the point at which the railroad across Siberia reaches Manchoukuo.

The news agency said authorities reported a force of 100 Russians crossed the frontier, but the Manchoukuo troops suffered no casualties.

Otis Hendrix, 45, who was shot to death in a Pampa, Texas, night club Tuesday was a former resident of Hope.

Mr. Hendrix was constable at Pampa.

Survivors include four brothers, Martin Hendrix of Blevins, Roy Hendrix of Hayworth, Okla.; Harmon Hendrix of Chicago and Grady Hendrix of Jefferson City, Ky., four sisters, Mrs. Ola Lloyd of Hope, Mrs. Kate Sewell of Kelleyville, Okla., and Mrs. Rosa Cobb of Los Angeles.

Local relatives left Wednesday to attend funeral services, which probably will be held at Pampa.

Killing Is Probed

PAMPA, Texas—(A)—Silence clothed the motives in the slayings of Constable Otis Hendrix and J. D. Whitte on a night club dance floor crowded with celebrants at a Roosevelt Birthday Ball.

White, a night club operator, former banker and Texas ranger, was shot four times in the heart. Hendrix suffered mortal abdominal wounds. Two men and two women were wounded slightly by stray bullets.

The gunfire commenced shortly after Sheriff Rose, Deputy George Pope and John Hudson and Hendrix entered the front door of the club, situated on the outskirts of Pampa.

When the firing started the 200 dancers quickly made for the exits. The wounded included Mrs. John Strange, I. J. Huval, American Legion commander; Mike Mitchell and an unidentified woman.

The grand jury will investigate Thursday.

House Votes 45-24
to Forbid Issuing of State Tokens

AID FOR PENSIONS

Amendment Would Increase Allocation From 25% to 30%

LITTLE ROCK—(A)—The house voted 45 to 24 Thursday to strip the state revenue commissioner of power to install a token system for collection of the 2 per cent sales tax.

The vote came in the adoption of an amendment by Woolsey of Franklin county to the sales tax bill.

The sales levy, ever since its first enactment in 1935, has authorized the commissioner to call for the use of tokens, but no steps to install the system have ever been taken. Woolsey told the house he understood the administration was preparing to start requiring the use of tokens.

Representative Steve Thomas, of Hot Spring county, obtained adoption of an amendment to increase the allocation of revenues to the welfare fund for old-age pension payments from 25 to 30 per cent.

Moncrief, of Arkansas county, prepared to introduce later in the day a bill to repeal the 1935 act legalizing pari-mutuel betting on dog and horse races.

The senate killed 14 to 8 Senator Luther Wilkes' pet project to create a pre-session joint budget committee.

Described by its sponsors as a move to eliminate the practice of mass poll-tax baying by office-seekers, a bill to change the final date for payment of poll taxes from June 15 to October 1 was passed 26 to 4 by the senate.

Drawn by Senators I. N. Moore, of Dumas, and Clyde Byrd, of El Dorado, the bill was attacked by Senator Luther Wilkes, of Helena, as an attempt by politicians now in office to freeze out opposition.

Bond-Buying Bill

LITTLE ROCK—Investment of the state's cash balances in its own bonds will be authorized if a bill passed by the House of Representatives Wednesday is enacted into law.

It now goes to the senate. The measure was described by its supporters as a means of refinancing the $12,000,000 highway bond debt of Arkansas at lower interest rates. It provides for purchase of bonds with $4,000,000 appropriated under provisions of the bill and for use of the bonds as collateral for bank loans. The borrowed money would be invested in additional state bonds.

Governor Bailey, who advocated passage of the bill in his inaugural address last month, said that investment of state funds in state bonds will strengthen the market and facilitate refinancing of the state debt under acts passed last year. The measure also provides for immediate $900,000 in bonds of the state penitentiary, State Teachers College and permanent school fund.

Representative Condrey of Sebastian county told the House that Arkansas need not expect to build roads for many years unless the state bonds are refunded, and that the purpose of the bill is to provide a workable refunding arrangement.

Representative Wilkinson of Sebastian county, Representative Weisenberger of Hempstead county, Representative Ward of Lee county and others advocated passage of the bill.

Opponents of the measure claimed that its provisions for refunding funds through investment and refunding of borrowed money are unstable and unsound, and warned against "an increased tax burden."

Speaking against the bill were Representative Proctor Johnson of Washington county and others.

It was passed, 72 to 14. Those voting against the bill were Representatives Darnell of Phillips county, Fordyce of Pulaski, Harper of

Honesty the Basis of All Sound Government

This is the way of the world progresses: it jogs comfortably along until there is some terrible disaster. Then there is a great hue and cry, and something is done to remedy the conditions that caused the disaster. Usually not enough is done, and even some of that advance is usually lost later. But not all.

We never give up our gains. We move forward three steps and slip back two, but we are still one step ahead. And that is social progress.

It is not futile to lock the barn after the horse is stolen—not if there are more horses left in the barn. Thus even the lamentable McKesson and Robbins disclosures may serve some slight end of progress. The fact that an unscrupulous scoundrel was able to milk the otherwise reputable firm of which he was president, simply by juggling its accounts, has already had ramifications in the financial world.

To tighten up accounting practices, Radio Corporation of America has just changed its by-laws to permit stockholders to select at annual meetings the company's auditors. And earlier this year, General Foods Corporation appointed a controller to be directly responsible to the directors, not the officers of the company. Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Inc. decided immediately after the McKesson and Robbins case to have an independent audit of inventories every three months.

Other companies are working on plans for a rotating auditing committee, such that after a period of years every member of the board will have had direct contact with auditing problems.

It is perfectly true that the average stockholder's interest in the conduct of this company is limited to annual signing of a proxy. But nevertheless, the recent trend toward making companies more and more responsible to their stockholders (who are the owners, after all) is likely to work toward more honest and effective operation.

No system, capitalist or socialist, can work without scrupulous honesty on the part of those who conduct business. A good argument done to capitalism by the Costers, the Mitchells and the Whitneys, than the Browners, the Thomases, and the Haywoods have ever been able to achieve.

The best thing is to breed honest hands that will stay out of the till. But the next best is to provide devices that will provide a good sharp automatic rap on the knuckles for all nances that get into the wrong places.

Ten Safety Rules for a Church or Community Supper.

Recently the director of the Bureau of the Food Control of the City of Baltimore pointed out that danger lies in suppers held on a large scale by lodges, clubs and churches for the purpose of raising money. A recent supper held in the vicinity of Baltimore resulted in seven cases of typhoid fever, and one of these patients died.

Few people realize that the preparation and storage of enough food for from 200 to 400 people requires an entirely different procedure from that required in preparation of food for a family.

For this reason Dr. F. A. Korff has provided 10 rules for guidance when a lodge or club supper is to be given:

1. There should be appointed a supervisor of personnel who is authorized to select and direct the activities of each worker.
2. No person who has a sore throat, a cold or cough or is suspected of being uncleanly in the matter of personal habits should be permitted to handle the food.
3. All persons should be required to wash their hands with soap and hot water before entering the kitchen or handling any of the food before or after its preparation.
4. No food should be stored or prepared in homes or in any other place except under the direct supervision of the appointed supervisor.
5. All food equipment and containers should be washed, rinsed and scalded before being used in preparing, storing and serving the food.
6. All perishable food should be kept refrigerated, not just in cold closets or ice chests, but in properly constructed refrigerators, the inside air temperature of which is below 50 degrees Fahrenheit.
7. Under no circumstances should leftover food be served the second or third day.
8. Food utensils such as cups, glasses, silverware, plates, if used the second time during the meal, should be washed, rinsed and scalded in the same manner that has just been advised for the original cleaning.
9. To prevent the main criticism that often is made following such suppers, namely, that the food was cold when served, be sure that all of it is served piping hot. Any bacterial infection that may have contaminated the food tends to be destroyed by the thorough heating.
10. Facilities should be provided for the proper disposal of garbage. Metal garbage cans with tight-fitting lids should be obtained.

A Book a Day

By Bruce Catten

Here's Fine Tale of High Romance

If "escape literature" is something designed to transport you a long way from current troubles, then Maurice Walsh's new novel, "Son of the Sword-maker" (Stokes $2.50), is escape literature par excellence.

For Mr. Walsh goes for back into the ancient history of the British Isles for his setting—back to the days before the Romans had come, when the island was split into myriad tiny kingdoms and the fighting men were doughty chaps given men were doughty chaps given to border raiding, single combat an epic lost-cause death struggles.

His story goes on to tell of the fortunes of a Celtic swordmaker; stout chaps who go roaming out into the world seek adventure, and who find them in ample measure. There are a couple of warring kings thrown in, a red-haired alien who is by way of being a swaggering hero's begit with broadsword and battle ax.

And the yarn is, to repeat escape literature of the best sort; for Mr. Walsh somehow, his knack of making these far-away lands and people—not as real as life, but extremely romantic and enchanting so that one reads about them without stopping to think whether he has presented a faithful picture of the times. He tells of a land where the air is clearer than today's air, the colors brighter, life less complex and its problems less subtle; and he puts his story into a ringing, poetic prose that lifts its cargo perfectly.

So if you go for tales of never-never lands, of gorgeous fights, romantic attitudes and high adventure—his is your dish.

Old Things

There is a charm and beauty in old things. That time has mellowed. Trails and cities quaint. And curious temples that knew restraint. Of age and custom; even the robes of kings. Take on a glory as each swift year brings. Then faded lustre. Sculpture and painting boast. An ancient name, and old songs grip us most. Because of those dead hands who gave them wings. In all about us is this truth revealed: Old stars are jagged in an ancient sky. The aged sea, whose breaking waves are whirled. Against old shores; the fire of April sealed. In heavy caverns, and that night cry. Of winds that are more ancient than the world.—Selected.

We were reminded of the above poem on Wednesday afternoon, when Miss Mamie Twitchell opened her program at the regular bi-weekly meeting of the Bay View Reading club at the home of Mrs. Hugh Jones on South Main street. Miss Twitchell in her program on "El Camino Real" or Royal Road, spoke of the attractiveness and fascination of old things stating that the "El Camino Real" was the oldest trail in California made by the Spanish Padres in establishing the line of, interesting Missions stretching from San Diego to San Francisco. The modern name for the El Camino Real is "The King's Highway." You will find these missions within in those day's journey, about 30 miles apart. Miss Twitchell stressed the point that the first trails were made for establishing places of worship, and gave interesting facts about the trail, extending out from the El Camino Real, introducing Mrs. Gus Haynes, who spoke most interestingly of "Old Trail-Makers of California." This instructive program was closed by Mrs. Ada Swicegood, who told of the establishment of "The Highway to the Stars" giving interesting data about the Wilson Observatory located on Mount Wilson near Pasadena, Calif. For this very delightful and instructive occasion Mrs. Jones cozy home was bright and attractive with potted plants and cut flowers. Mrs. T. R. Billingsley presided over the business period, at which time the different members of the club pledged their hospitality to ten members of the National Honor Society pupils, visiting our town with in the next month or two. A very pleasing feature of the meeting was the receipt of a telegram extending greetings to the club from the president, Mrs. Hugh Smith.

who is spending the next few months in her home town, Sileam Springs. During the social hour Mrs. Jones assisted by little Miss Betty Jones and Mrs. Gus Haynes and Mrs. W. R. Hamilton served a very delightful salad course with hot rolls and Russian tea. Mrs. Hugh Smith was assistant hostess.

The Cemetery association will meet at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at the First Methodist church.

Mrs. Mattie Greer of Lewisville is spending a few days visiting with Mr. and Mrs. K. G. McRae.

Mrs. Pearl Eason and Miss Mary Matthews have returned from Dallas and Fort Worth, where they purchased spring stock for the Fashion Shop.

Hope chapter, No. 328 O. E. S. will hold its regular meeting Thursday night at 7:30 at the Masonic Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Kesner announce the arrival of a little daughter christened Romona Ann, February 1, at Julia Chester hospital.

Modern Menus

Quaker's Italian Spaghetti

- (Serves 50)
- Onions (minced)—6 cups.
 - Garlic (minced)—2 cloves
 - Olive oil—1/2 cups
 - Beef (ground)—5 pounds
 - Italian (or regular) tomatoes—6 (No. 2 1/2) cans
 - Italian tomato paste—8 (no. 9 Italian size) cans
 - Salt—3 tablespoons
 - Worcestershire sauce—2 tablespoons
 - Quaker or Uncle Sam Spaghetti—6 pounds
 - Italian cheese (grated)—2 pounds.
1. Cook the onions and the garlic in the olive oil for about 5 minutes.
 2. Add the meat and cook until the meat is slightly browned.
 3. Combine with the tomatoes and tomato paste and simmer for about 2 hours, or until the sauce is very thick.
 4. Cook spaghetti.
 5. Add salt and Worcestershire sauce to Italian sauce just before serving.
 6. Serve sauce on the cooked spaghetti and sprinkle generally with grated cheese.

Italian Cooking in History
It's not difficult to believe after a supper such as this that the Italians attained an excellence in cooking long before many of their neighbors.

Modern French cooking, hailed as some of the finest in the world, had its origin in the Italian methods introduced at the French court by princesses of the de Medici and culinary history shows that when French cooking was still a "tossing together of this and that," the Italians had developed theirs to the point of artistry. Quaker and Uncle Sam Spaghetti and Macaroni, made from durum wheat flour, lend themselves admirably to Italian dishes. The macaroni is available in the "long style" as well as in the quicker cooking "elbo short-cuts." Creamy Quaker and Uncle Sam macaroni and spaghetti are firm, yet delightfully tender.

A House bill authorizing sale of Arkansas bonding bonds to any agency of the federal government was passed by a vote of 78 to 4 after a brief explanation of Representative Bryson, co-chairman of the Joint Budget Committee. The bill, a Budget Committee measure, would make it possible to sell outstanding Arkansas bonds at not less than par and a favorable rate of interest to such agencies as the RFC. Governor Bailey suggested last year that it might be possible to sell state bonds to the RFC.

ed States would be in France. This was denied by another, an administration supporter.

Others quoted the president as having said that in the past England and France were America's first line of defense and that unless America helped those nations now she might lose that first line of defense.

Mr. Roosevelt was said to have expressed the opinion that another extensive war was inevitable, and that America had nothing to lose and everything to gain by a policy of co-operation with the democracies. It was apparent, some said, he felt that in the conflict between the dictator states and the democracies, England and France had borne the brunt, while the United States remained secure.

He was represented as saying that if Great Britain and France should be beaten in war, North and South America would be the last defenders of democracy, and target of the authoritarian states. He expressed concern, it was said, German and Italian efforts to expand their trade and spread their culture in South America.

Informed Circles Say That Brandeis Not to Return to U.S. Bench

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — Informed opinion in Supreme Court circles is that Justice Brandeis never will return to the bench from his present illness but on recovering will retire and make way for a new appointee.

To avoid any outright predictions, however, our informants suggest that Brandeis is a man of strong will. And his will for a long time has been to stay on the Supreme Court to a ripe old age such as 90 or thereabouts, so as to rival the service of the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Recently he had one bad day in the bench, his illness at that time causing his colleagues evident alarm. Subsequently illness kept him at home. But he was a tough man and a well tended body and was soon reported out of bed, able to dismiss part of the nursing staff.

Those reporting on him long have predicted that if ever he felt he could not do an adequate portion of the court's work he would retire. He is 82 now, and at 82 illness counts.

Of Religion

Bright sayings of the statesman: President Roosevelt: "Religion, by teaching man his relationship to God, gives the individual a sense of his own dignity and teaches him to respect himself by respecting his neighbors."

Representative Hook of Michigan, defending Attorney General Frank Murphy from attacks of Michigan Republican members: "I believe it is about time, when we enter into political campaigns and when we discuss the record of men in public office, to do so on the issues, presenting them clearly to the people, so that they can intelligently pass on the issues and stop these scurrilous, personal attacks and this scurrilous 'red' baiting that has been going on."

Secretary of Commerce Hopkins: "I do not believe it is one of the functions of the Secretary of Commerce to write economic treatises, although I do have my own views. I have spent six years around here with people who write economic treatises and I don't believe any of them know any more about it than I do."

Senator Johnson of California, in opposing confirmation of Hopkins as Secretary of Commerce: "I know perfectly well that I am here on my feet exerting myself for a cause that is already defeated. I don't care a continental damn because I know I am right."

Of Democracy

Irvin Laughlin, Ambassador to Spain 1929-33: "Whatever may come of the present struggle, there never will be a democracy in Spain as we understand it. They have always had a sort of monarchical democracy—every man as good as the king. They will never endure fascism, will never yield to the totalitarian states, which have hurt the mass as helped them."

Bution-hole views: President Roosevelt using a long cigarette holder, but not one of the filter variety. . . . Hans Thomsen, fashionably dressed German charge d'affairs, striding alone down a Washington street at night, stops abruptly at a store window—to look at boys' coats. . . . Wrong Way Douglas Corrigan, in a corner of a Washington store autographing copies of his book on the right (not wrong) page. . . . Vice-President Garner patting a senator on the back, probably the fiftieth pat of the day.

British farmers are freezing their meat and selling it as foreign in order to get better prices, it was reported to the Lincolnshire chamber of agriculture.

Strapless Swim Suits Down to Last Inch

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP)—Beach style critics this winter have decided that about the last spare inch of material had been shorn from milady's bathing costume with removal of the shoulder straps.

In the place of the conventional straps, a contrivance of rubber elastic tape strung through the upper pleating holds up the top part of the suits. Wearers generally appear to be pleased with the strapless outfits, especially for sun bathing. No unsightly white line is left over each shoulder and the coat of suntan is general and even for display with evening clothes.

Bailey to Hear Attorney of Charles Pearce in Gazette Killing

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Governor Carl E. Bailey Wednesday consented to hold a clemency hearing for Charles Pearce, Little Rock, serving a life sentence on robbery and murder charges in connection with an eight-year-old slaying.

He acted upon a request from an attorney representing relatives of Pearce in St. Louis in agreeing to arrange the conference.

Pearce was sentenced in 1932 for the holdup-slaying of James Chespie, who was killed when he resisted a robber who entered the business office of the Arkansas Gazette and attempted to escape with payroll money.

WILLISVILLE, Ark.—A basketball tournament will be held in the Willisville High School gymnasium Friday and Saturday of this week with the first round to be played Friday afternoon.

There will be no Friday night session in the tournament to be resumed Saturday morning and to continue all day. The championship game will be played Saturday night.

Following are the teams entering: Bearden, Prescott, Reader, Troy, Bodewig, Cale, Rosston, Stephens, Bunea Vista and Willisville. Each one of the above teams will bring a girls' team. The Saturday afternoon session will be played between girls' teams.

Tuesday night at Gordon, the Willisville senior boys defeated Gordon, 24 to 20. Simpson taking high scoring honors with 15 points.

The Willisville girls defeated Gordon, 28 to 15. Silvey winning scoring honors with 14 points.

Tax Exempt Bonds Cause Arguments

Sob Stories Brought Out in Effort to Dodge Taxes

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON.—Back of the administration's demand for elimination of tax-exempt securities is a lot more than a mere effort to make life tough for economic royalists.

Years ago when the Government debt state and federal—amounted to only a few billion dollars, the tax-exemption privilege was not a really serious matter. But now that this public debt has reached a total of $35,000,000,000 (treasury estimate), it is something else again. As the Treasury says:

"Billions of private capital, which might otherwise hunt a place for private investment now can hide safely and profitably in untaxed Government securities."

The Federal Government loses much real revenue. If the same money were invested in private bonds, much of the income would yield high returns. If, compelled to seek a private spot for investment, this capital would create new industry and thus reduce the relief load.

There are arguments against repealing the exemption and the Senate Finance Committee already has arranged to hear them soon.

The Government's case largely is this:

Right when there is a real need for enterprising business men to use their money to start new industry, the wealth instead has been shoved into taxless safety of Government bonds.

But business men argue that it is highly lucky the money was ready for investment in Government bonds when the depression hit. How could they tell billions have been raised otherwise?

Also, these business investors argue, it is not a bad idea to have considerable investment capital confidently resting in Government securities. Unlike private securities, these Government securities will not suddenly be dumped on a panicky market when a depression comes.

State officials also are protesting any change. They will have to pay increased interest rates on new issues of state bonds to offset the federal taxes. The Treasury agrees that it so. The federal interest rates also will climb. The Treasury, however, claims the states will get at least part of the money back by taxing income from federal bonds. They can't now.

Menace State Sovereignty

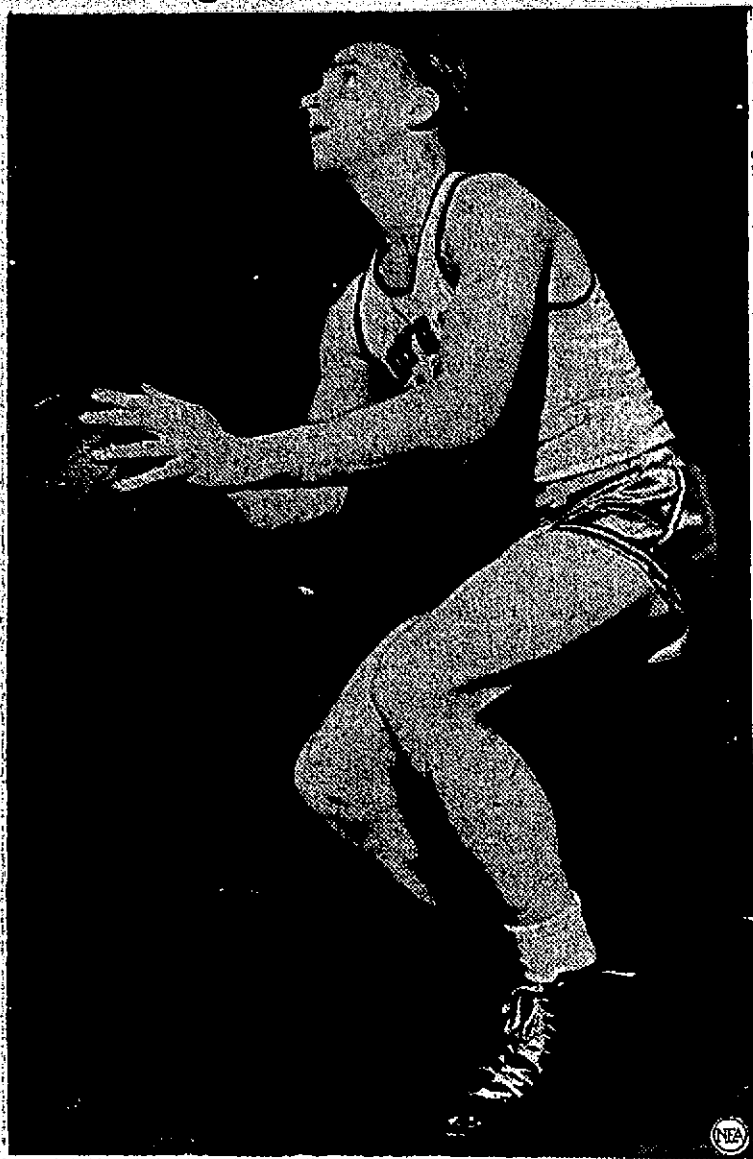

The states further protest that federal taxation of income from state bonds will menace state sovereignty. ("The power to tax is the power to destroy"—an assertion which some deny.) The Treasury's answer is that such a states-rightist as Senator Glass of Virginia urged elimination of the exemption when he was Secretary of the Treasury.

The Treasury has calculated that only people in high income brackets can profit from tax exemption of bond income. It figures that a man with an income of $500,000 a year can earn more money from Government securities paying 3 per cent than he can from taxable private securities paying 10 per cent. The difference is largely the 50 to 70 per cent rates in the upper tax ranges.

The turnover will not be abrupt. Only new issues will lose the exemption.

Basketball critics consider Loyola University of Chicago one of the outstanding quints in the Midwest, and biggest reason for the Ramblers' success is Wibs Kautz, highest-scoring guard in the country. Kautz's average at mid-season was slightly more than 18 points a game. He seeks to better the pace set by Hank Luisetti, who last year averaged 19.3 points a game for Stanford.

RAISING A FAMILY

By Olive Roberts Barton

Adult Party Better With Youngsters Kept Away

"What shall I do with my children when I entertain?" a mother asks.

If I knew exactly when, and how, and who this lady is going to entertain, it would be easier to answer. As usual, it depends.

We shall take a few hypothetical cases, and make the best of them. One differs from another, and so do families differ; some people live in apartments and others have big houses. The Smiths may have one child and the Jones six. On the other hand, the Smith child may be very young and the Jones family fairly well grown.

Then, too, communities have their way. In some places it is considered bad taste to have youngsters around when there is a party for grown-ups. Besides the degree of formality is a factor.

Mr. and Mrs. House have issued invitations for a formal dinner, white tie for the man, and his Frau's best bib and tucker. This does not mean that such dinner is dull, not at all, but dull or delightful it is nevertheless, an OCCASION.

Neither Seen Nor Heard

At such a time children should not be in evidence. Not one smidgen of them. They are fed early, for most formal dinners are late affairs, and relegated to their rooms, or sent to Aunt Emma. Unless a daughter or son is of "official" age to share in the party. This runs from eighteen for girls to twenty-one for boys. Even then, if it is a dinner planned entirely for a certain group, they may not fit in.

However, today there happens to be a decided swing to the more informal party. Homes are smaller and parties are limbering up.

In a small house, children are hard to segregate. Not that they need to be present at dinner tables arranged for their elders, but unless they are likely to be underfoot, they won't be considered extra baggage if they stay around long enough to be part of the scenery.

If it is not customary where you live to have the children put on their best bib and tucker and be present for an hour or so, then that answer itself. Don't expect your friends to make a fuss over them. On the other hand, if everyone else you know has her children share in any hospitable doings, then do as the Romans.

Government takes most of their earnings have reached moribund ears in Washington, where more heed is paid these past few weeks to the need of encouraging big as well as little business men to start job-making enterprises.

Farm Fertilizers

Hempstead county farmers are overlooking one of the best sources of income from their vegetable crops when they neglect to make use of the manure that is made on the farm.

Manure increases the actual fertilizer content of the soil, it increases the water-holding capacity of the soil, and it makes the soil much more workable.

A ton of ordinary mixed manure will contain about 10 to 12 pounds of nitrogen, 2 to 3 pounds of phosphorus, and 8 to 12 pounds of potash, according to J. R. Cooper, horticulturist, University of Arkansas College of Agriculture.

Research work conducted by the College of Agriculture shows that actual returns in crops that come from the use of manure. Following are listed the gains per acre made by crops following the use of manure.

Irish potatoes, 20.08 bushels on heavy soil, 50.83 on light soil; sweet potatoes, 1.16 bushels on heavy soil, .99.18 on light soil; tomatoes, 2,493.75 pounds on heavy soil, 2,493.75 pounds on light soil; radishes, 1,160.20 pounds on light soil; spinach, 1,938.89 pounds on heavy soil, 1,788.72 pounds on light soil; and cabbage, 3,858.69 pounds on heavy soil.

Gains made by fruit following manure fertilization are:
Strawberries, 5.45 crates of 24 quarts on heavy soil, 14.21 crates of 24 quarts on light soil; watermelons, 3,288.62 pounds on light soil; cantaloupes, 1-

Baylor, Arkansas Will Clash Friday

Bears, Holding Second Place, Have Won Four and Lost Two

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark.—Although out of the conference race, the University of Arkansas Razorbacks are in position to have considerable to say concerning the championship when they face the Baylor Bears in a two-game series here Friday and Saturday nights.

The Bears boast a record of four conference wins against one defeat, second only to the undefeated Southern Methodist quintet. The Porkers have won only one game in four starts, that a 65-to-11 shellacking they gave to Texas.

The Razorback defense, erratic all year, will be pitted against three of the loop's finest shooters. Leading the Baylor attack will be Capt. Pete Crensy forward, who looped 18 points against Rice in his last start; Frank Bryski, a lanky sophomore, and Vaughan at guard.

Against this trio the Porkers have only one sure scorer, John Adams, whose average of nearly 12 points for his four games is tops in the conference. Capt. Neil Martin is the Razorbacks' next best point maker.

138.91 melons on light soil.

Jacks, because of their sluggish nature, require a little more watchfulness in regard to feeding, but otherwise the same general precautions should be followed that are used in feeding horses.

Good clean bright hay should be fed, allowing about what will be readily cleaned up daily. In general, corn should be used in small amounts at any time, although some may be fed when jacks are thin, according to M. W. Mulrow, extension animal husbandman, University of Arkansas College of Agriculture.

The best grain ration, Mr. Mulrow said, is 4 parts of oats, and one part of bran. As a guide, one pound of grain should be fed for each 100 pounds of live weight during the breeding season, but during the winter or off-breeding season only about one-half of that amount will be required.

When owners wish to feed corn, a desirable ration is 4 parts oats, 4 parts corn, and one part of linseed oil meal.

The best shelter for the jack is a box stall opening to a runway about an acre in size, and probably sodded with Bermuda.

Remember Gerald Smith? He Is Still Preaching

NEW YORK.—Maybe you forgot about Gerald L. K. Smith, the ruddy red-browed reverend of Shreveport La., after he pronounced benediction over the grave of his assassinated ally, Senator Huey Long.

But he's still in there preaching. He wants to "save" political sinners on the left with right evangelism. Friends call him a new Bryan; foe call him fascist. He lives in Detroit and Cleveland "both."

He showed up in New York recently, fresh from the wars in Ohio and Michigan, where he supported Sen. Robert Taft and Gov. Frank Fitzgerald with his "Baptist pounding."

Says he's an "ism-smasher," but advocates Americanism, fundamentalism, evangelism, individualism. Fights he says, the New Deal, fascism, communism, CIO and Satan. He's honorary member of the AFL; minister of the Christian church; 40 and married; six feet, weighs 200.

Says Taft "is the type" who will be the next president.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Why Abraham Lincoln Grew a Beard

THE campaign posters of 1860 pictured an extremely thin, gaunt Lincoln. In contrast with the photo of the heavy-jowled vice presidential candidate, Hannibal Hamlin, he appeared even more emaciated.

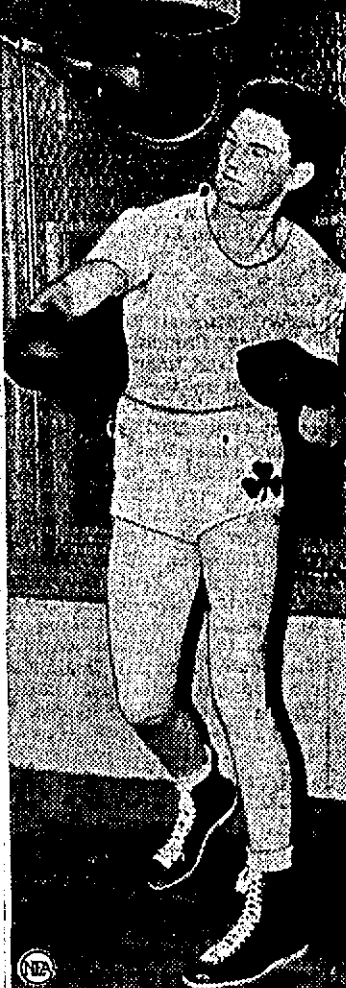

Eleven-year-old Grace Bedell of Westfield, N. Y., saw the picture and immediately said she didn't like it. In true childish sincerity she wrote a letter to Mr. Lincoln suggesting that he grow a beard to hide his thin features.

Since he was especially interested in children, Lincoln answered the letter, pointed out that people might think it "a piece of silly affectation" if he were to grow whiskers at this stage. But he grew them nevertheless and by the time of his inauguration he had the heavy beard which has become so familiar to every American.

The inaugural train was routed from Springfield to Washington by way of Westfield, N. Y. A large crowd gathered to see the new President, and in the crowd was little Grace. But she wasn't tall enough to see her hero. The President, however, remembered her and after his address Lincoln called the child to the rear platform of his car. There the great man shook her hand and kissed her.

"You see," he said, indicating his beard, "I let these whiskers grow for you, Grace." Lincoln, with whiskers, is shown above on a stamp of the issue of 1890, 4-cent dark brown, after a photograph from life. The stamp is enlarged. (Copyright, 1932, NEA Service, Inc.)

Says You Must Slow Down If You Want to Catch Up With Sleep

CHICAGO.—(P)—Gaining restful sleep is like feeding doves, says Dr. Robert S. Carroll in Hygeia, American Medical Association publication.

One moves around and waves his hand of corn with little success, but when he becomes motionless a doubting, confiding, inquiring dove will perch on the wrist and feed.

"That is the way to attract slumber," Dr. Carroll said. "Through repose alone we woo sleep. When one learns to compose the mind and body, sleep will care for itself."

The doctor said that "fear of sleeplessness is an outstanding symptom of insomnia because this fear becomes mental tension and thus the thing dreaded is created in the dreading."

Nashville to Play Prescott Thursday

Two Contests Scheduled in Gym—Hard Games Expected

PRESCOTT, Ark.—The Prescott High School Scrappers coached by "Bo" Sherman, will meet the Prescott High School Curley Wolves in two games, at the local gym on Thursday night. There is no common foe among the opponents of the two teams by which a comparison of the teams can be made.

The Scrappers have long been opponents of the Wolves and two hard fought contests are expected. The girls game will start at 7:30, the boys game at 8:30.

Arkadelphia Wins

ARKADELPHIA, Ark.—Arkadelphia High School scrappers defeated Prescott High School Curley Wolves 55 to 34, at Prescott Tuesday night. Millappes, Arkadelphia forward, scored 23 points. Woods and Ray were other high point men for Arkadelphia, while Otten and Kelley, with 13 and nine points respectively, were high for Prescott. In the junior game, Prescott won from Arkadelphia, 44 to 25, with Stanton and Baker scoring 11 points each for Prescott.

Declares That Phillies Will Rise From Cellar Position

PHILADELPHIA.—(P)—The Phillies' new doctor will try to revive the club which finished 24½ games behind seventh place in the national league last year, was in town Wednesday with a couple of fighting-word prescriptions and a decree that the patient will get better or else.

"I'm the boss," proclaimed Dr. James Prothro, the one-time dentist from the Little Rock, Ark., club of the Southern Association. "And I say we sell no more star players until we get something besides cash in return."

The new manager declared the Phillies' record last season was "inconceivable," but promised: "It won't happen again."

"I'm not a miracle man," he said, "and I can't rub a lamp and bring a pennant winner out of the bottom of the pail."

"But I can promise you this—that if we have the spirit I hope the boys will show, and the seriousness that I expect to instill in them, we will not be in the cellar. I won't boss a losing club."

Prothro took cognizance of the fact that a minor league manager coming up to the major's was "on a spot," but, he said, "I think that's silly. There's actually not much difference from a manager's viewpoint."

In the first step toward revitalizing the club, Prothro said the Phillies would get their own star material—youth.

"We are going to build up an extensive farm system," he announced. Starting now, we are lining up players four or five years away from the big time."

Of his present working material, the new manager said he had not yet found out "what I want to know about the boys. Frankly, I don't know exactly what I have."

Cafe Society Goes to Greenwich Village to Hear Itself Riddled

NEW YORK—That new spoof in the village—Greenwich Village—is a night club called Cafe Society. The object is to give the horse-laugh to such ones as Coq Rouge and El Morocco where the restaurant elite vie for social honors.

But, ironically enough, this Village gag caught on so quickly that all the uptowners have flocked down there, so the joke now is not on them but on the prankish club.

This place, nevertheless, has the most amazing doorman in New York. A corpulent fellow, he is garbed in a heavy-collared suit such as George Jean Nathan sports to sporting rights, has a hank of rope tied around his middle, and in white gloves, with holes in the finger tips, he stands ready to greet the customers.

He usually allows the customers to open the door for themselves and then graciously compliments them for showing such democratic spirit.

Enall Tale
Among those reviewing the "grimaces of France and Italy over Tunisia" with great earnest are the gourmets to whom the word escargots means le dernier cri (just to keep the French motif) in food. There is nothing your gourmet won't do for snails and most of these come from Tunis and Morocco.

Seventy-five tons come over every year, in fact, and if hostilities should out of the supply, the gourmets would have to fall back on French and Italian escargots, which haven't the magic properties of their slow motion brethren from Africa.

Seventy-five tons amount to 60,000,000 snails, and most of these pass through three shops in New York's Little Italy. There are three kinds of snails. At-tupatelli come from Tunis in two sizes—large and small. Crustace are large and green and come from Morocco and Tunis. Lumuche is the common variety of snail. There is one other edible species, the lunnechini, which are so small they must be picked out with a toothpick.

Snails are a new delicacy to Americans—the first imported about a generation ago for the Italian, French, Spanish and Green districts. But rising snails for food goes way back to 50 B. C., where a snail preserve was established at Tarquinium.

Snails are shipped here in a dormant state in crates. They are rendered inactive by exposure to the sun and will not move again until moisture reaches them. No one knows just how long a snail can remain immobile. The importers naturally insist that snails are as healthy as any other fine food. Incidentally, they do not catalogue the escargots as fish. The federal government in a booklet on snails says that they taste like oysters and are just as nourishing.

SERIAL STORY

NO TIME TO MARRY

BY ELINORE COWAN STONE

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, Janet transformed the room and Barney is delighted. Then suddenly he turns from Janet mysteriously.

CHAPTER XXIII

OH, Barney, Janet thought, you wouldn't have evaded a month ago. You'd have just blurted it out—no matter what it was. Can't we ever be—just natural again?

He had turned back from the coat closet, and was looking about him.

"How did you do it, Jan?" he asked; then with a laugh that covered an edge of anxiety, "You haven't been robbing a bank or something, have you?"

"Just some things I had at home."

"Oh!" he said; and she wondered if she were mistaken in thinking he sounded relieved.

"A few odds and ends do make a lot of difference, don't they?" she went on chattily. "Now I think it will do very nicely for a while."

"Do?" Barney stopped smiling to frown faintly. "Jan, why do you keep saying it will 'do'?"

You've made—well, you've made a home out of nothing."

He seemed so happy, and suddenly so rested that she did not tell him that the one bedroom window was stuck fast, that the oven wouldn't heat properly, and that the superintendent had told her the janitor had exceeded his authority in promising the fresh paint and linoleum.

"Say," Barney went on, "there's room along that wall for the bookshelves I left in storage at my old diggings. I'll get them and unpack my books as soon as I'm—" he broke off; then finished hastily, "as soon as I have time."

When they sat down to dinner, Janet said, "Is the war all over at the office? By this time, old Owlface must know that it's your story that's selling the News. I couldn't even get a copy today."

"Oh, him?" Barney's face darkened. "Should you mind talking about something else, honey?" he asked abruptly. "I've used so many high-powered words on him today that I haven't any left to do justice to the subject."

"Of course," Janet said cheerfully, although she felt snubbed and left out. "Why talk shop, anyhow?"

SO they talked about Cynthia and Timothy Benton—who was very much better; about the new trick can opener Barney had brought home, which he said would do everything about the house but answer the door; about the dog show, in which Leslie Pugh was entering two cocker spaniels; and finally about the fact that Hallowell and Benton had they collaborated on numerous hit plays. When Armstrong died, Mizner sat by the widow's side in the funeral parlor, tenderly consoling her while the eulogy was read.

The oration was a flowery one and as it progressed, Armstrong's widow's woe became more intense and her tears more profuse. She turned to Mizner and sobbed, "Oh Wilson, isn't it a beautiful eulogy of Paul?"

Mizner wasn't exactly dry-eyed either. But the characteristic inability to resist the wisecrack, he replied, "Yeah, it is—and it's the first thing Paul has ever heard that he won't be able to steal."

Mystery "Angel"

We've heard of a chap on Broadway who has backed several flop plays. Between closings of these frequent failures, he serves as the counter man at a Times Square soft drink stand.

No one, we understand, has been able to discover where he gets the money for his ventures. But those who know him confidently expect him to serve as the "angel" for another offering pretty soon.

Pence, founded on justice, is the ultimate goal to which the policy of Fascist Italy is directed.—As Mussolini toasted Britain's Chamberlain at Rome's state banquet.

had to lay off some of their best men, because, it seemed; Timothy Benton's money had been taking care of the payroll for the past six months.

"Was—I wonder if Lance was one of them?" Janet asked.

And Barney said without meeting her glance, "Why, Lance was out several weeks ago, Jan. Didn't you know? But he won't suffer. I hear he's doing pretty well on his own."

At something in his manner, Janet set down her coffee cup and clasped her hands tightly.

"Listen, Barney," she said quietly. "There's one thing I want understood once and for all. Lance doesn't mean anything to me. He hasn't for a long time. If he had, I shouldn't have married you, Barney."

Barney said quickly—too quickly, "Of course not, Jan. I know that."

Cynthia came in early next morning, flushed with news.

Tim was practically well again, and they were going out of town. A new oil field had been opened in the Southwest; and a friend who had heard about Tim's financial reverses had wired him to come on and take charge of operations in his holdings.

"Tim says we may have to live in a tent or a box car," Cynthia told Janet, her eyes bright. "He thought I'd better wait here. Imagine! I'm going to love it!"

Janet said, "I think you really will, Cyn."

"And about Aunt Mary's bills, Jan," Cynthia said. "We found them in her desk after you left."

I wonder if you'd mind—they really are colossal—if we sold some of her antiques to pay them. I know you and Barney can't, and frankly, just now, we can't either. The rest of the things we'll put in storage until one of us needs them."

"She always meant them for you, Cyn. You must do what you think best."

After all, that was what Aunt Mary would like—to pay her own passage to the end, as proudly and independently as she had while she lived.

WHEN Cynthia finally got up to go, she said, fumbling with her scarf and hesitating in a way very unlike the old Cynthia, "Janet, I've always hated people who volunteered good advice. They always sound so smug. But be nice to Barney, won't you? Of course I know you don't love him, but—"

"You know what?" Janet cried sharply.

"Darling, it's too obvious. Even Tim, with a temperature of 103, noticed it the other evening. And men, because, it seemed; Timothy Benton's money had been taking care of the payroll for the past six months.

"It was you he wanted all along, Jan. He never would have dated me if Lance hadn't been so hard on your heels, and—well, I think he was sorry for me."

All at once Janet began to laugh, tenderly, so that after a time her shoulders began to shake with sobs.

"I can't help it, Cyn," she apologized between gasps. "It's all so funny—so preposterously funny—you and Tim and Lance and Barney and I!"

"I don't see anything funny about it," Cynthia said between bewilderment and irritation. "For Heaven's sake, brace up, Jan. I've got to get back and see that Tim doesn't do some fool thing to make his cold worse. He's such a baby, and we're starting tomorrow."

"But that's the funniest thing of all, Cyn," Janet whooped. "You in the heavy maternal role!"

"Jan!" Cynthia's tone was maddeningly grown up—"I used to think you were amazingly wise and sure; but you've got a lot to learn. When you really love a man, there are times when you feel like his mother. That's one way you know."

When Cynthia had gone, Janet sat down shakily.

SO it was obvious—even to Timothy Benton—that she did not love Barney! She hated herself for placing Barney in a position so humiliating.

Well, hereafter, no one should have reason to guess that. She would pretend so well that not even Barney could accuse her again of pretending.

As soon as she had dinner almost ready, she took a hasty shower, gave her face, hair and hands the extra few minutes she had not found time for these last few busy days, and put on one of the prettiest of her trousseau frocks—the knitted wool in warm brown and russet and green.

She set the table with the daintiest of her linen, the silver bowl of roses, and ivory candles in the silver sticks. Then she turned again to her dinner—a golden soufflé, fresh green peas, and a frozen dessert made in the tiny icebox.

Those frugal months during which Aunt Mary had taught her to cook seemed like a dispensation of Providence now.

Barney looked so taut and gaunt when he came in that evening that Janet knew he must have paused outside the door to set his hat at that jaunty angle and fortify his grin.

We, the Women

Englishwomen Can See a Joke, Says Comedienne

The average Englishman may or may not have a blind spot where his sense of humor ought to be, but the average Englishwoman can appreciate a joke, even when it is on herself in the role of wife or mother-in-law. Yes, that's right, Gracie Fields says so.

Gracie Fields, in case the name and face aren't familiar, is England's leading comedienne—and she ought to know.

She doesn't go in for sophisticated comedy. Her humor is uproariously slapstick, or as she put it still in "at ease" in her suite in New York's Ambassador Hotel. "Sometimes when I'm singing a song I just go nuts."

And the Englishwomen like her clowning. They like it so well that her audiences are largely made up of women.

But Gracie Fields admits they can't take her clowning straight. They like it broken up by straight songs, preferably sentimental ballads. And they don't want any "fun poked at their royalty. The comedienne thinks they are in the right about that and that we Americans don't leave any one or anything any dignity. As she says, "I think we were all deeply hurt about our King's going away. But we don't try to drag a laugh out of it, the way you would have."

Gracie Fields thinks "With Malice Toward Some" (the book the American professor's wife wrote about English women) is funny in spots. "But," she says, "on the whole, I have the feeling that Margaret Halsey is struggling desperately to get a laugh." (She got it, all right—from most American women.)

Gracie feels sorry for the young English actress who has been given the part of Scarlett O'Hara. She wonders how she'll ever be able to turn her "oh, so proper boarding school training" into the roughneck appeal of Scarlett.

But back where we started—to the Englishwoman's sense of humor. You gather that Queen Mary doesn't share it. For Miss Fields says that once when she was singing a song beautifully, but belying its seriousness with the postures of a full-chested opera singer, Queen Mary was a bit upset.

"Why do you spoil such a beautiful song by being funny?" she asked the woman who gets paid more than any English actress for being able to do just that.

Put Heart into Making the Home Valentine Party Gay

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Service Staff Writer

Call in the young in heart, set up the buffet table, decorate the table and room with hearts and arrows and pale pink flowers and honor the patron saint of lovers, St. Valentine.

Make a fruit punch of pineapple and grape fruit juice and color it appropriately with some of the fresh strawberries you will find in the market. Slice a few berries and have them float in the punch.

Have sandwiches, of course—devils, heart shaped ones filled with tuna fish and peppers, sliced whole primateos, radishes and cream cheese.

A chafing dish of hot creamed chicken and mushrooms would be a delicious addition, particularly for the Valentine supper party.

Your cakes will bring the affectionate praises of St. Valentine. They should have pink icing and pink and pale green icing flowers on them. Include strawberry ice cream for dessert, of course, or a strawberry gelatin concoction in a heart-shaped mold.

Finish off with tea and coffee, nuts, peppermint wafers with lovers' messages, cigarettes and assorted sugar candies.

Valentine Sandwich Trays

Paper sandwich plates in red, gold and powder blue are effective and easy to make for the Valentine party.

To make one tray use a paper lace doily. Decorate it with hearts and flowers cut from decorated paper. Paste this to a paper plate.

The handle is made from two wires wrapped in white crepe paper. Bend wires to form the two hearts at the top and then wrap the four ends of the wires into one stem.

The stem is put through a hole punctured in the center of the paper plate. On the under side of plate, separate the four ends of wire and spread out close to the plate's surface.

You can make these heart winning favors in St. Valentine's honor. (1) Candy heart wrapped in transparent paper and decorated with paper doilies placed in fan fashion. (2) Basket of two red cardboard hearts. (3) Large chocolate candy heart forms the body of the Valentine clown. The head is a small rubber ball. Transparent paper makes the suit and crepe paper the hat. (4) Lover's basket of small clothes pins around a wire, bows, red crepe paper and flowers. (5) "Dinah"—two chocolate hearts and crepe paper held by toothpicks. (6) Cover from Valentine box of pink paper flowers, ribbons tipped with hearts, paper lace doily. (7) Cardboard heart padded with cotton, edged with paper ruffle and blue paper forget-me-nots. (8) Home sandwich plate of red, gold and powder blue paper.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking out acids and poisons from the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 4 pounds of waste.

Frequent urination, passing with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

If the 15 million of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging headaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait until you're laid up for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 million of kidney tubes and filters get rid of waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Decorate the handle with figures cut from decorated paper, powder blue and white crepe paper flowers and tie with a gold ribbon.

To finish the tray, paste a scalloped ruffle of red paper around the under edge of the plate. Then reinforce the tray by adding another paper plate on the under side, pasting it firmly in place.

Gold Petals and Lace

Another tray is made in the same manner. First paste to the top edge of the paper plate a ruffle of gold crepe paper petals, the petals of which have been twisted. Then add a small paper lace doily.

Make a handle of two wires wrapped together with white crepe paper and bent in the shape of a heart. Fasten through the center of the plate as described for the first tray.

Decorate the handle with paper flowers, figures cut from decorated crepe paper and gold ribbon.

Add the red ruffle for the outer edge of the tray by pasting to the under side of the plate and fasten in position the second plate on the bottom for reinforcement.

Hollywood Arguments Are Stopped When Directors Post $100 Bond

HOLLYWOOD — All over the lot, two of the hottest-tempered men in town are Samuel Goldwyn and Director William Wyler. Their mutual respect hasn't kept them from arguing, and Wyler twice has deserted Goldwyn, once in the middle of a picture—"Cowboy and the Lady."

But the producer always has called him back, and now—to Hollywood's surprise—they're completing the difficult "Wuthering Heights" and haven't had an audible quarrel. Here is how they have done it. They agreed that whenever they sat down to talk, each one would put $155 on the table between them. And the first man to begin shouting and founding the table forfeited his bond.

Vallet Keeps Basil Untidy

At first, Basil Rathbone had a little trouble with the role of Sherlock Holmes in "Hound of the Baskervilles." Personally fastidious, the actor was inclined to comb his hair often and flick dust and ashes from his clothes. Couldn't break himself of the habit, although he and everybody knows that Holmes was careless about his appearance, if not actually slopy.

Finally, the director sent over to the wardrobe department for a vallet, one Dave Preston. His principal task is to keep Mr. Rathbone looking properly untidy.

The coldest desert this side of Mongolia is on Stage 43 at Metro. When the schedule called for a large desert set for "Song of the West," the most available space was in the building which houses the ice rink. It would have been too messy to remove the ice and pour sand over the refrigerating pipes. So canvas was laid over the ice and a layer of sand was poured on that. Players who have to trudge over the balzing wastes are complaining of cold feet.

Leighing in Wait for a Director

Viven Leigh, who is Scarlett O'Hara, is supposed not to have been brought here from England for testing. It was just by coincidence that she showed up at the studio on the evening of Dec. 10, on the arm of her agent, Myron Selnick, who happens to be Producer David Selnick's brother. That was the night of the big fire on the lot, when they were making some tests for the burning of bled apology to the director; something about "unavoidable." "Don't give us that, you rat!" snapped McCarthy. "We all know you've been out phoning in bets on the ponies."

Here's Flattering Design For Black or Print Frock

By CAROL DAY

For your "good black dress," or for your gay new print, Pattern 8416 has just the simplicity and lovely lines that you want.

It's the kind you'll wear and wear and wear, varying it from time to time with different necklaces, brooches and clips.

You can see at once how flattering its silhouette is to the figure. Shaped shoulders and a slight blouse at the waistline create soft bust fullness. The skirt, fitted into the waist with a princess cut, is finished with sash bows in the back that enable you to draw it in as snugly as you please.

Silk print, flat crepe, thin wool and sheers are smart fabrics for this basic dress because you want something that will shrill easily and smoothly.

Pattern 8416 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material, with long sleeves; 4 1/2 yards with short sleeves.

The new SPRING and SUMMER PATTERN BOOK, 32 pages of attractive designs for every size and every occasion, is now ready. Photographs show dresses made from these patterns being worn; a feature you will enjoy. Let the charming designs in this new book help you in your sewing. One pattern and the new Spring and Summer Pattern Book—25 cents. Pattern or book alone—15 cents.

HERE'S WHERE YOU SEE THE DIFFERENCE PURINA MAKES!

103 EXTRA EGGS PER HEN!

The U. S. average per hen yearly is 82 eggs; ; but the Purina average per hen yearly is 185 eggs. That's a difference of 103 eggs; ; a difference you'll want in feeding your hens.

Ask anyone who feeds either Purina Layena, the complete laying mash, or Purina Lay Chow, the supplement to go with home grown grain, and you'll find that Purina Laying Chows not only make a difference in egg production but in keeping hens in good condition.

And, remember, Purina Laying Chows are fortified with that vitamin A ingredient; ; Pur-a-tene. So if you want Purina results, feed either Purina Layena or Purina Lay Chow. Your hens will lay at their best!
